The first Institution of which Queen Alexandra became Patroness, after coming to England, was the British Home and Hospital for Incurables (Streatham). That was in 1861, and Her Majesty has taken the greatest possible personal interest in its welfare ever since. The Committee urgently needs, and earnestly appeals for, help.

The only reliable annual income is £5,000. The yearly expenditure is £25,000. The sum of £7,000 is owing to the Bankers. This Institution, the welfare of which Queen Alexandra

has so keenly at heart, is for MIDDLE-CLASS PEOPLE ONLY. It provides (1) a home for life, or (2) a pension for life for those who have spent their all in fruitless efforts to regain health and strength, and retain their cherished independence. You are cordially invited to visit the Home any day, and you are most earnestly asked to help this deserving and suffering class—so slow to plead their own great need, and for which so little is done.

Please send a contribution to the Secretary, Mr. Edgar Penman, 72, Cheapside, London, E.C.2, and so help the first Institution in England of which Queen Alexandra became Patroness.

A Great Hospital's Urgent Appeal.

Few of those who gaze from Westminster Bridge on the handsome blocks of St. Thomas's Hospital realise that this is one of the most ancient Charities of London.

First founded at Southwark in the days of King John and endowed to the memory of Thomas à Becket, the Martyr of Canterbury, in 1553, this religious foundation was re-endowed by Edward VI.

From those days it has ever been in the forefront in the art of healing.

In 1860, in the old buildings at Southwark at the Surrey end of London Bridge, Florence Nightingale established the first great training school for nurses in England. Her Majesty Queen Victoria opened the present buildings for the reception of patients on June 21st, 1871.

St. Thomas's Hospital.

Pathological laboratories, operating theatres offering every facility for the practice of perfect aseptic surgery, well-equipped special departments have been provided, until we have a hospital fully typical of the voluntary hospitals of England, which are the admiration of visitors from all parts of the world.

During the war 11,376 officers and other ranks were received from various seats of war and treated in the hospital.

The cost of carrying on the work has increased enormously, and the Governors find themselves faced with a crippling debt of £100,000.

St. Thomas's has done great work in the past and can do even more in the future, but it must be cleared of this debt.

Lambeth knows what the Hospital does for it, and Lambeth pays. Does Park Lane recognise the claims of the Hospital where its doctors study and its nurses are trained?

Will you, who read this, kindly help by sending a donation to the treasurer, the Hon. Sir Arthur Stanley, and become an annual subscriber to meet the needs of the Hospital.

How does the National Institute for the Blind Help Blind Folk ?

1. It bears a very heavy financial responsibility for many important institutions all over Great Britain for the training and education of the blind, and provides practically all the Braille literature for the whole British Empire.

2. It maintains the most up-to-date and best-equipped School of Massage in the country for blind people of both sexes, and takes practical steps to help ex-students to build remunerative careers.

3. It is the sole producer of literature in Moon type for the entire English-speaking world.

4. It has a widely-developed department for the printing and dissemination of Braille music, without which blind musicians would be helpless.

5. It maintains an old-established and far-reaching organisation for visiting, assisting, and training the blind in their own homes.

6. It expends thousands of pounds annually on the relief of needy blind persons.

7. It undertakes the financial responsibility and conduct of Worcester College for blind boys, and the newly-established college at Chorley Wood for blind girls.

8. It cares for the Deaf-Blind—those condemned to life-long darkness and silence.

9. It is responsible for the upkeep of Hoole Bank, Chester, for blind persons of good social position who are unable to maintain themselves in comfort.

10. It maintains a home at Clifton for blind women of the poorer classes, and a similar home at Brighton ; also a hostel for blind women workers in London.

11. It carries out much important research work with regard to apparatus and materials generally of wide importance to the blind, and the manufacture of these.

12. It maintains the only home in the Empire for blind babies—"Sunshine House" at Chorley Wood—and proposes to equip and maintain several more "Sunshine Houses."

The proper discharge of these obligations depends entirely upon the generous response of the public.

"An Association of Experts in Child-Saving."—Sunday Times.

FOUNDED in 1869 by the late Dr. Bowman Stephenson, the National Children's Home and Orphanage embodies in a wide range of activities the best principles of child-saving.

There are 3,500 boys and girls now under its care (15,000 past and present). They are grouped in families in the charge of Sisters, whose love and care replace the home life of which they have been deprived. In the 27 Branches of the Home provision is made for every form of child need from tuberculosis to simple orphanhood.

SOCIETY FOR THE ASSISTANCE OF LADIES IN REDUCED CIRCUMSTANCES

UNDER ROYAL PATRONAGE.

DEAR FRIENDS,

Once again I plead for the General Fund of this Society. £2,000 is needed, and needed at once. Gifts of £5 and upwards will be thankfully received, also smaller sums from those who cannot afford to give large ones.

There are many people who may not be able to help in their lifetime ; from them I beg a legacy, however small. Everyone who can, I hope, will help us, for unless we get the sum needed it will be very serious, as the Society cannot exist for long unless the General Fund is supported.

HOMELESS CHILDREN'S AID AND ADOPTION SOCIETY

CHAIRMAN OF COMMITTEE: REV. F. B. MEYER, B.A., D.D.

The aim of this Society is to befriend the children of unmarried mothers, and give them a fair chance in life. It receives little children, under five years of age, into its Home; endeavours to make the father contribute towards support; and, if desired, arranges for the adoption of such children as are considered suitable, after careful investigation, as to the fitness of the adopting parents.

Over 40,000 of these children are born in the United Kingdom every year—the serious wastage in child-life consequent on illegitimacy demands the grave attention of all who are concerned in our National well-being.

Holiday House:—Fairmount, Shanklin, I.W. Home for the Aged:—Chislehurst, Kent.

The work of the Institution is most comprehensive in character. It benefits the young by investing their savings in annuities and by helping them as Funds permit in their annual payments, by providing them with a temporary home and free registration, by which they can obtain engagements; also a Holiday Home, and by assisting them when in difficulties. To the old it offers temporary help, a settled income by the provision of free annuities, and a home for their declining years.

Nearly 2,000 Governesses are assisted Annually.

The Annual expenditure exceeds £20,000.

To maintain the present work

£10,000

is annually required from voluntary sources, including Legacies, which the Institution is compelled to spend.

Donations of Stock or money sufficient to establish an annuity will be funded, the amount bearing the Founder's Name, and the Patronage, if he wish it, reserved to him for life.

Membership consists in the payment of an Annual Guinea, or of Ten Guineas in one sum, or in the case of a Governess Member, of not less than half-a-guinea per annum. Subscribers are entitled to vote for annuities in the proportion of one Vote for each annual Half-Guinea not in arrear, and one Life Vote for each Donation of Five Guineas.

Now daddy plays

POOR daddy used to say he was a stranger to his own children, but that was before he got the TriumphAuto.

All fond of music, none of us played well, and our strumming and vamping got on daddy's nerves, so we visited friends for musical evenings.

Daddy didn't come—usually too tired after the business day. Then he got the TriumphAuto. Now things are different; he's quite a new daddy, we never dreamed he had so much music in him.

You see, the TriumphAuto is different from an ordinary player piano, daddy can play anything—classical masterpieces, song accompaniments, and dances—but it's daddy playing, it's all his own expression and touch. Now we're usually at home and friends foregather for our musical evenings.

You should send for the free illustrated book which explains the unique controls—the Triumphodist—the Temponome, and other features which make good music a possible art for you, or call at the TriumphAuto Showrooms and test this instrument yourself.

The TriumphAuto is built in several styles of Grand, Baby Grand and Cottage models, with beautifully finished cases in a variety of good woods.

THE UNION OF SOUTH AFRICA

FACTS FOR THE HOME-MAKER:

IN the present post-war re-adjustment, when so many are considering the question of restarting overseas, the Union of South Africa merits special attention from those who have a taste for rural life and sufficient capital to acquire and develop land.

The climate is invigorating and pleasant, and the residential conditions are attractive. It is a large country, with such variety of formation that in some part or other the prospective farmer will find just the environment in which he and his family are likely to be happy, and the means of making a living there from agriculture. There are many portions of the Union of South Africa in which, among noble surroundings, under outdoor healthful conditions, a farmer working competently may through the years build up a valuable estate.

Not less than £2,000 is required for even a modest start. There are good facilities for obtaining training and guidance before investing capital. Full particulars should in the first instance be obtained from the Office of the High Commissioner for the Union of South Africa, Trafalgar Square, W.C.2.

PREFACE.

HE elections to the Southern and Northern Parliaments of Ireland, under the provisions of the Government of Ireland Act 1920, were held in May and June of last year, the Northern Parliament being opened by the King in person (accompanied by the Queen) on June 22nd, 1921, and in his speech on that occasion His Majesty laid the foundation of the future steps taken to engender peace in Ireland. A distribution of Honours took place in connection with the opening.

Parliaments of Ireland.

Although the subsequent attempt made by the Government in July 1921 to bring about a settlement of Irish affairs proved abortive, and Parliament was prorogued in November following without success having eventuated in this connection, the Recess happily proved more fruitful in results, as in the small hours of the morning of December 6th an Agreement between the Government and the Representatives of Southern Ireland was signed, providing for the establishment of a Free State of Ireland. This Agreement was ratified by the Imperial Parliament at a short Session December 14th to 19th, 1921, was confirmed by a majority of Dail Eireann on January 7th, 1922, and was ratified by the Southern Parliament of Ireland (called together for that purpose) on the 14th of the same month, a Provisional Government at the same time being set up to carry out, with the British Government, the necessary arrangements of transfer under the Treaty.

Free State of Ireland.

As, however, both time and legislation will be required before the Irish Free State can be finally constituted, when Southern Ireland will cease to have representatives in the Imperial Parliament, details regarding all those returned to the thirty-first Parliament of the United Kingdom at the election of 1918 are still included in the present issue of "DEBRET'S HOUSE OF COMMONS AND THE JUDICIAL BENCH," and for the purposes of record the lists of those elected in May and June 1921 to both the Southern and Northern Parliaments of Ireland and the Southern and Northern Senates, as well as to the Council of Ireland, have been added; in the Judicial Bench the Judges of the High Court, both in Southern and Northern Ireland, are given as constituted last year.

Pages 277 to 284.

In April 1921 the Rt. Hon. James Lowther resigned the Speakership of the House of Commons, which he had held since 1905, having been four times re-elected, and was succeeded in that Office by the Rt. Hon. John Henry Whitley, M.P. for Halifax, the ninth to hold it since the date of the Reform Act of 1832. Shortly after his retirement the Rt. Hon. James Lowther's services to the House of Commons were rewarded with the customary Viscounty, and he is now known as Viscount Ullswater. Of the Viscountcies conferred on the seven other Speakers who have occupied the Chair since the date of the Reform Act four are still in existence: those conferred on Speakers Manners-Sutton, Brand, Peel, and Gully, by the respective titles of Viscounts Canterbury, Hampden, Peel, and Selby, while those bestowed on Speakers Abercromby, Shaw-Lefevre, and Denison, as Viscounts Dunfermline, Eversley, and Ossington respectively, have meanwhile become extinct, although the second-mentioned dignity was subsequently revived in 1906 as a Barony. The Barony of Onslow, held by the present Earl of Onslow, is another title given to a former Speaker of the House of Commons, but it was conferred only some years after the termination of his short tenure of that office, while the Barony of Colchester, bestowed on Speaker Abbot in 1817, became extinct as recently as 1919.

Another Lady Member in the person of Mrs. Margaret Winttingham has now joined Viscountess Astor (the first Lady Member to take her seat) in the House of Commons. This new M.P. was elected for the Louth Division of Parts of Lindsey in September of last year, in place of her deceased husband, who had represented that constituency in Parliament since January 1920. The petition of Viscountess Rhondda (on behalf of Peeresses in their own right) for a writ of summons to sit in the Upper House has been referred to the Committee for Privileges of the House of Lords.

There was a reconstruction of the Ministry in April 1921, which, in addition to showing an extensive rearrangement of appointments, included the acceptance of the Leadership of the House of Commons by the Rt. Hon. J. Austen Chamberlain with the Office of Lord Privy Seal, in place of the Rt. Hon. A. Bonar Law, who had resigned, also the retirement of Lieut.-Col. Lord Edmund Bernard Talbot, G.C.V.O., D.S.O., M.V.O. (Deputy Earl Marshal) from the Office of Parliamentary Patronage Secretary to the Treasury and Chief Government Whip upon his appointment to be the first Viceroy of Ireland under the Government of Ireland Act 1920, when he was created Viscount FitzAlan of Derwent.

During its three years of existence the present Imperial Parliament has had many changes in its personnel. From pages xv to xxvii, under the heading of "Changes since the General Election Dec. 1918" it will be seen that 70 new Members have been elected as the result of 84 Bye-elections held; 46 Members have resigned their seats or vacated them by reason of appointment to Offices of profit under the Crown or on elevation to or succession to Peerages; 33 Members have died, 7 have been raised to the Peerage, 19 have been sworn of the Privy Council, 1 name has been added to the Order of Merit, and 2 M.P.'s have become Companions of Honour; 20 Members have been created Baronets, 33 have received the honour of Knighthood, 18 have been nominated Commanders or Companions of the Orders of Knighthood, 3 Members have succeeded to Peerages and 4 to Baronetcies, while 7 seats (including 4 Irish) are vacant at the time of going to press.

Included in the PARLIAMENTARY SECTION, in addition to biographies of Members of Parliament and full Polling Statistics, will be found lists of the Southern and Northern Parliaments of Ireland as elected 1921, an abridged Peerage, a list of the Privy Council, and "Explanations to Technical Parliamentary Expressions." An exceptionally large number of new appointments have had to be chronicled in the JUDICIAL BENCH SECTION both at home and abroad, and a Court of Appeal for Palestine has been established, details of which are recorded among the Colonial Judges.

NEWFOUNDLAND

THE NORWAY OF THE NEW WORLD
A LAND OF SURPASSING BEAUTY & RARE INTEREST FOR TRAVELLERS

THE DISCOVERY.

When John Cabot, his son and crew of West of England men set sail from Bristol in the spring of 1497 in the service of Henry VII., and made the Newfoundland coast, a gateway was opened to the New World, and a "corner stone" was well and truly laid of the British Empire.

COLONIZATION.

It was not until the end of the sixteenth century that any effort was made to colonize Newfoundland, and even at the present time the population of the Island is only about 250,000 people, altogether disproportionate to the vastness of the country.

The Government is a responsible one, granted in 1855.

OPPORTUNITIES.

Splendid opportunities to acquire lands for Farming, Mining, Lumbering, and Pulp and Paper-making, on reasonable terms exist, with concessions as to the free entry of all Machinery and Equipment for establishing new industries.

TYPE OF SETTLER REQUIRED.

Of applied energy with capital.

THE LIGHTER SIDE OF LIFE.

Newfoundland is a Sportsman's Paradise, abounding in game of the finest in fin, fur and feather; lordly Caribou in countless herds, rivers filled with Salmon, lakes filled with Trout, and forests alive with furry creatures, all sport free except Caribou hunting (License £10) and Salmon Fishing (Tax £2). And its Dependency of Labrador exceeds in its natural panorama the fjords of Norway.

SONS OF ENGLAND.

"What to do with our boys" is the anxious question more than ever heard now—unemployment difficulties in commercial life and in most professions making a choice for the "future career" of the boys a great anxiety to parents.

In this great Colony of Newfoundland, nature supplies wants which over-populated countries have not, and cannot supply, and provided new colonizers have what John Cabot had in 1497, "grit," prosperity in the future is assured, and they can settle down quickly in an essentially British community.

English fathers with sturdy sons to settle in life will be well advised to give them a good start in such a Colony, and the High Commissioner for Newfoundland,

The HON. SIR EDGAR BOWRING, Kt.

58, Victoria Street, London, S.W.1, will, no doubt, be pleased to give full information as to "opportunities" on application.

can be obtained from a five-acre Orange Orchard in South Africa after the fifth year. The outlay involved is £562 10s. cash, or £125 p.a. for five years, and the following are a few brief features of the scheme :

1. Few investments offer such excellent results with security of capital.
2. The actual results obtained by the South African Prudential Co. show even better figures than above.
3. The Directors are all well-known public men in South Africa.
4. The investor is the actual freeholder of his five-acre farm.
5. There is an unlimited market for all the oranges grown.
6. All management work can be undertaken for a small percentage of profits.
7. The scheme is available for both investors and intending settlers.
8. Many shrewd professional and business men have invested.

Oranges from the estates have been exhibited at the High Commissioners Office, Union of South Africa, Trafalgar Square, W.C.

EXPLANATION OF TECHNICAL PARLIAMENTARY EXPRESSIONS.

WITH BRIEF DESCRIPTIONS OF THE Duties of some of the Higher Officers of State.

ACCEPTANCE OF OFFICE. Under statute 6 Ann., c. 41, the holder of an office of profit accepted from the Crown or the Lord-Lieutenant of Ireland, is incapacitated for a seat in Parliament, if the office be created since 1705. The acceptor of any office created before that year must vacate his seat and submit himself to re-election; but by the Representation of the People Act, 1867, and some Amending Acts, holders of the principal offices of State are relieved from the obligation to submit themselves to re-election, upon a transfer from one office to another; the Law Officers also on transfer do not vacate. The legislation on the subject is tangled and obscure, but the result, broadly speaking, is that holders of the higher political offices vacate their seats on appointment, except in cases of transfer, but may be re-elected; that holders of minor political offices, who are not appointed directly by the Crown, e.g. Under-Secretaries of State, do not vacate their seats on appointment; and that Judges, and members of the permanent Civil Service are disqualified for a seat in Parliament. Holders of the following Offices in the Ministry vacate their seats on appointment, seeking re-election:—The First Lord of the Treasury; the Lord Privy Seal; the Chancellor of the Exchequer; the First Lord of the Admiralty; the six Principal Secretaries of State (but not the Under Secretaries), the Secretary for Scotland; the Presidents of Boards of Agriculture and Education; the Ministers of Health, Labour, Pensions and Transport; the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster; the Chief Secretary for Ireland; the Postmaster-Gen.; the First Commissioner of Works; the Junior Lords of the Treasury on first appointment (paid and unpaid); the Civil Lord of the Admiralty; the Attorneys-General for England and Ireland; the Lord Advocate for Scotland; the three Solicitors-General; and Ministers without Portfolio. The following officials of the Royal Household also vacate their seats on appointment:—Treasurer of the Household; Comptroller of the Household; and the Vice-Chamberlain. Holders of Civil Service pensions are not disqualified. A member appointed an Ambassador does not thereby vacate his seat.

ADJOURNMENT of its sitting is solely in the power of each House of Parliament; but if both Houses be adjourned for more than fourteen days, the Crown may by proclamation direct them to re-assemble. Adjournment by the House of Commons (unless pursuant to a Standing or Special Order) must be on question put and agreed to, except when there is "no House." Motions for the adjournment of the House "on a definite matter of urgent public importance," are used as the means of discussing a matter of which notice has not been given, but this power has been placed under limitations by certain rules of procedure. Adjournment of debate may be moved by any member who has not spoken to the original question, at any time before the question is fully put, but it cannot be moved in committee, and discussion must be kept strictly to the question of adjournment. In case of grave disorder arising, the Speaker may if he thinks it necessary adjourn the House without question put, or suspend any sitting for a time to be named by him.

ADMIRALTY, FIRST LORD OF THE. Is Chief of the Commissioners, appointed to discharge the office of Lord High Admiral. He is the political head of the Navy, and it is through him that the Cabinet exercises control over it.

AIR, SECRETARY OF STATE FOR. Has the general control and direction of the Air Force.

ALIENS are incapable of voting for the election of members of Parliament, neither can they take their seats as members for any constituency.

AMENDMENT, AN. Is the mode by which the decision of the House on a question may be intercepted, by submitting for its consideration an alternative proposition, either wholly or partially opposed to the original question.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL, THE, is the chief legal adviser of the Crown; he institutes informations and prosecutions for the Crown in matters criminal, and suits for anything concerning the King in inheritance or profit.

AUDITOR. [See Election Auditor.]

AYES. Members voting in favour of a motion.

BALLOT, THE. [See Election of Members.]

BANKRUPT MEMBERS are by statute rendered incapable of sitting and voting. At the expiration of six months after a member has become a bankrupt, his election is void, and a writ will issue for the election of another representative, unless in the meantime the bankruptcy has been annulled.

BILLS, PRIVATE. [See Private Bills.]

BILLS, PUBLIC. In the House of Lords the consent of the House is not required to the introduction of a bill; in the Commons a bill can be brought in either by presentation (under the 1902 rule) or by motion and leave. Proposals for bills relating to taxation, and the grant of public money must be moved in a committee of the whole House, having received the previous recommendation of the Crown. After the first

* On occasion Acts have been passed making this temporarily unnecessary, and in 1910 an Act was passed abolishing the necessity for re-election in respect of appointments made within nine months of any proclamation summoning a new Parliament.

reading a day is appointed for the second reading, previously to which the bill is printed, and each member supplied with a copy. Discussion of the principles of a bill may be held on any of its stages, except in committee and on the stage of consideration as amended in committee; but the most usual period for this discussion is the second reading. After being read a second time the bill, except in the case of a bill imposing taxes, or a consolidated fund or appropriation bill, stands committed to one of the six Standing Committees, unless the House otherwise order. Bills so excepted go to a committee of the whole House. When the details of the bill have been considered in Committee, and the bill has been debated clause by clause, the chairman of the committee reports it to the House. This he does by stating to the Speaker that "the committee has gone through the bill," and has either "made amendments thereunto" or "directed him to report the same without amendment." If no amendment has been made, the bill is ordered to be read a third time either forthwith or on a future day; but if the committee have altered it the bill is ordered to be considered as amended. If the amendments are considerable, it is customary to reprint the bill. On the consideration of a bill as amended, amendments may be made or new clauses (of which notice has been given) may be added, such as could have been proposed in Committee. A bill may also be committed to a Select Committee after second reading, but must in that case, after it has passed the Select Committee, be recommitted to a Committee of the whole House. On the third reading the judgment of the House is expressed upon the entire bill, and only verbal amendments can at this stage be made. During the progress of the bill the House may divide on the following questions: 1st, on the motion for leave of introduction (unless the Bill is presented under the 1902 rule); 2nd, on the second reading; 3rd, on a motion to commit the bill to a Committee other than a Standing Committee, that the bill be recommitted; 4th, that it be read a third time. These are exclusive of the divisions that may be taken on amendments proposed to be made to the bill in committee, or on its consideration as amended. After the passing of a bill, the Clerk of the House takes it to the bar of the House of Lords, and hands it to the Clerk of Parliaments, signed and endorsed in Norman French. In the Upper House it passes through similar forms to those of the Commons. If the Lords agree with the Commons in the principle of a measure, but differ on matters of detail, the bill is returned to the Commons, bearing the amendments the Lords propose: these are considered by the Lower House, and if disagreed to, the bill is returned back to the Lords with a message assigning reasons for the disagreement. A Public Bill, other than a Money Bill, as defined by the Parliament Act, 1911 (see Money Bill), having been passed by the House of Commons in three successive sessions, and having been sent up to the House of Lords one month before the end of the session, if rejected by the House of Lords in each of those sessions, can then be presented direct to His Majesty for the Royal Assent, provided that two years have elapsed between the date of second reading in the first session of the Bill in the House of Commons, and the date at which it passes there in the third session. A Bill is considered rejected by the House of Lords unless it is passed by that chamber, either without amendment or only with amendments agreed to by both Houses. Differences between the Houses were formerly settled by a conference, but this practice has now become obsolete. Acts of amnesty are read only once in each House. Bills that have passed both Houses remain with the Lords, except those of supply, which are sent back to the Commons, to be by the Speaker presented at the bar of the Lords for the Royal assent.

BOARD OF AGRICULTURE AND FISHERIES, THE PRESIDENT OF. Is head of the Government Department controlling matters dealing with lands, animals, rivers, and the sea, as well as the Ordnance Survey. This department, founded in 1889 as to agriculture, was extended to cover fisheries in 1903.

BOARD OF EDUCATION, PRESIDENT OF. Has control of this Government Department of Education for England and Wales, and supervises the distribution of the Government grants towards elementary, secondary, technical, University, and all other forms of public education; the department has a large inspection and examination staff.

BOARD OF TRADE, THE. Considers all matters especially relating to trade and commercial relations. It consists of a President and several high officers of State, though it is practically managed by a President and Parliamentary Secretary. It has the general superintendence of all matters relating to merchant ships and seamen, and exercises a supervision over harbours, electric lighting, the administration of the Law of Bankruptcy, the registration of Joint Stock Companies, etc., while it also exercises financial control over the principal lighthouse authorities. It collects and publishes statistics of the revenue, trade, commerce, wealth, population, etc., of the United Kingdom and its dependencies, as well as of foreign countries.

BRIBERY. Both the giver and the receiver of a bribe can be put into the witness-box and be compelled to answer any questions, however they might criminate themselves. The giver must say to whom he gave, and what he gave, and where he procured the cash. The receiver must say what he received, and from whom he received it. Any person who gives or receives a bribe is disfranchised for life, and his name is to be printed at the foot of every succeeding register of voters for that place in a distinct list, headed "disqualified for bribery, treating, or undue influence." A candidate personally guilty of bribery is incompetent to sit in a Parliament for seven years. He is liable to an indictment for misdemeanour, and to be punished with fine and imprisonment. He is incompetent to vote at any Parliamentary or municipal election; he cannot hold any municipal or judicial office; and, if a magistrate, is to be removed from the commission of the peace. The offences of "bribery," "treating," and "undue and corrupt influence" are defined by statute law, especially by the Corrupt, etc., Practices Prevention Act,

In 1921 the Government of Victoria bought from them 250 acres of this for soldier settlement, and 18 soldier orange growers are now in possession.

In 1922-23, the Company will be planting and selling orange groves for possession in four-five years when bearing, or for possession when planted. Or, selling orange land ready for planting.

SELLING EGGS AND CREAM WHILE THE ORANGES GROW.—In some cases, small dairy, pig, sheep, or poultry farms will be sold combined with orange or lemon growing. The land is cleared and improved. The Government Irrigation channels, with ample water, are already on the land, and Government guaranteed water rights and a freehold land title are secured to every buyer.

Particulars from the Company's Attorney: J. W. ARTHUR KELLY, at 196, Bishopsgate, London, E.C.2, or 243, Collins Street, Melbourne.

Mr. J. W. Arthur Kelly is a Government Auctioneer and Sworn Lands Valuer, with thirty years' experience of Lands Settlement. He knows the Estate, and he is a specialist in orange and other irrigated culture.

1883. The maximum scale of expenditure during an election now is in the case of a County 7d. for each elector on the Register, and 5d. in the case of a Borough (with modification for joint candidates). Expenditure above this scale is an illegal practice, punishable by fine, and by electoral and parliamentary disability. Payment by candidates for conveyance of voters is prohibited. Penalties for corrupt practices have lately been increased; and the intervention of the Public Prosecutor at election trials is prescribed.

BUDGET, THE. Is the financial statement laid annually by the Chancellor of the Exchequer before Parliament of the estimated public income and expenditure of the following or current financial year. In it he mentions what taxes it is proposed to repeal, to reduce, or augment, and what new ones are to be imposed. In his speech on this occasion the Chancellor reviews the financial condition of the country, comparing the income and expenditure of the previous year with those of preceding years, justifying the changes that are proposed to be made, and estimating their probable effects.

BURGESS. Is a person whose name appears upon the Burgess Roll of Boroughs.

BURGESS ROLL. Is a list kept in each municipal borough of the burgesses of the borough.

CABINET, THE. A Committee formed out of the Privy Council, which acts as the connecting link between the Crown and Parliament. It is formed of the highest officers of State, and always includes the First Lord of the Treasury, the Lord Chancellor, the Lord President of the Council, the Lord Privy Seal, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, the Secretaries of State (except for Air), and the First Lord of the Admiralty. It also includes members, selected from the following functionaries at the discretion of the Premier:—Commissioner of Works and Buildings, Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, President of the Board of Trade, Postmaster-General, Secretary of State for Air, Secretary for Scotland, Chief Secretary for Ireland, President of the Local Government Board, President of the Board of Education, President of the Board of Agriculture, and Attorney-General. The members are all Privy Counsellors, and being more immediately responsible for the conduct of public affairs, their deliberations are always considered confidential, and kept secret, even from their colleagues who are not in the Cabinet. During the latter part of the War, and for some time afterwards, the Cabinet was represented by a small War Cabinet. It now has a Secretary, and minutes of its proceedings are kept but not published. [See Ministry.]

CALL, THE, OF THE HOUSES. Under the former practice of both Houses when urgent business was anticipated, days were appointed, when the names of the members were called over, and those who were not then present were subject to censure or punishment from the House. This practice, however, has fallen into disuse.

CANDIDATE'S DEPOSIT. £150: forfeited if votes polled do not exceed $\frac{1}{4}$ of total poll in constituency; repaid to an elected Member when he has taken the oath as Member.

CANDIDATE'S EXPENSES. [See under Bribery.]

CHAIRMAN OF COMMITTEE OF WAYS AND MEANS is elected by the House at the beginning of each Parliament. He presides when the House is in Committee, and sits at the table in the seat of the Clerk of the House. His vote is never given in committee, except when, on a division, the numbers are equal. In the absence of the Speaker, he or the Deputy Chairman presides as Deputy Speaker, but only holds that office from day to day. He is also charged with a general superintendence over Private Bill Legislation. A Deputy Chairman is now also elected for each Parliament.

CHANCELLOR OF THE DUCHY OF LANCASTER. Is a Minister appointed (by surrender of the seal into his keeping) to manage the Duchy of Lancaster estates; he appoints magistrates for the County Palatine of Lancashire, and performs duties for Lancashire similar to those performed by the Lord Chancellor for the rest of England.

CHANCELLOR OF THE EXCHEQUER, THE. Is the principal Finance Minister of the Crown, and exercises the chief and most responsible control over the expenditure of different branches of the public revenue, the details of which are annually submitted for revision. [See Budget.]

CHANCELLOR, THE LORD. Is created by the will of the Sovereign, by the act of delivering the Great Seal into his custody; he holds office during the pleasure of the Crown, but practically resigns office with his party. He is Speaker of the House of Lords, and by virtue of his office a Member of the Privy Council. He issues writs for summoning Parliament, and transacts all business connected with the custody of the Great Seal. He is principal adviser to the Crown in matters of law, President of the Supreme Court of Judicature, and head of the profession of the law. He appoints the judges of the High Court, and the judges of county courts, inserts the names of justices in the commissions of the peace, and is patron of all Crown livings rated under £20 per annum. He is visitor in right of the Crown of all hospitals and colleges of Royal foundation, has the general guardianship of all infants, idiots, and lunatics; and exercises a special jurisdiction in questions relating to charities, and trust estates. He ranks above all Dukes not of the blood royal, and next below the Archbishop of Canterbury; is customarily created a Peer, but presides over the House of Lords whether so created or not. During absence abroad on official business the office is put into commission.

CHANGE OF MINISTRY. [See Seals of Office.]

CHILTERN HUNDREDS. The three Hundreds of Stoke, Desborough, and Burnham, comprise the southernmost part of the Chiltern Hills, a range of chalky hills traversing the county of Bucks, between Tring, in Hertfordshire, and Goring, in Warwickshire. The office of "The Steward of the Chiltern Hundreds" is supposed to have been established for the purpose of suppressing bands of depredators who in former times infested the forests with which the sides of these hills were covered, and it has been retained to enable members of the House of Commons to resign their seats by accepting office under the Crown. The duties and the remuneration of this office are nominal. The appointment is vested in the Chancellor of the Exchequer. The Stewardships of the Manors of Northstead and Hempholme are analogous offices. Writs for re-election to seats thus vacated cannot be issued during recess.

CLERK OF THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

Is appointed by letters patent; performs the office of president during the election of the Speaker; sits at the upper end of the table, with two assistants; is responsible for the record of the proceedings of the House; signs all its orders, endorses bills sent to the House of Lords, and reads aloud such documents as the House may require. The appointment of the Clerks in the service of the House, other than Clerks at the table, is vested in this officer.

CLERK OF THE PARLIAMENTS OCCUPIES an analogous position in the House of Lords to the Clerk of the House of Commons.

CLOSURE OF THE DEBATE

can, by Standing Order, be obtained upon the motion of any Member, unless the Speaker or the Chairman of Committees withholds his assent.

COLONIES, SECRETARY OF STATE FOR THE.

Has under his control matters connected with the government of our extensive colonial possessions.

COMMITTALS.

The House of Commons has the power to repress any aggression committed upon its privileges, and it can order into custody any person so offending. Such imprisonment, however, expires at the end of the session.

COMMITTEE OF PUBLIC ACCOUNTS, THE.

Examines the accounts showing the appropriation of sums granted annually by Parliament to meet the public expenditure. It consists of not less than eleven members (the more usual number being fifteen), who are nominated at the commencement of each session.

COMMITTEE ON PUBLIC PETITIONS, THE.

Reports throughout the session a classified list of the petitions presented to the House, and scrutinises them for the purpose of seeing whether or not they are in order.

COMMITTEES, STANDING.

There are now six of these, each consisting of 40 to 60 members with 10 to 15 "specialists" added, appointed by the House of Commons pursuant to Standing Order, to which all bills stand committed after second reading, unless the House otherwise order, except Finance, Consolidated Fund or Appropriation Bills. Members to serve on these Committees are nominated by the Committee of Selection.

COMMITTEES.

Those of the whole House are generally for the purpose of considering resolutions, or the details of a bill, or for financial purposes, such as those for "Supply" or "Ways and Means." Select Committees are for specific purposes, and the numbers composing them, as a rule, consist of fifteen members. Presence of strangers is generally permitted by Commons Committees while witnesses are under examination, but not while the Committee deliberates. Members are entitled to be present throughout Committee sittings, unless the House otherwise order, or unless it be a Secret Committee. The consideration of private bills is referred to Committees consisting of four members. Under Standing Order, Select Committees can sit during the sitting of the House, except while the House is at prayers. When the House goes into Committee, the Speaker vacates the chair, the mace is placed under the table, and the Chairman of Ways and Means, or in his absence the Deputy Chairman or another member, is called on to preside.

CONFERENCE, A.

Is the meeting of a delegated number of Peers and of members of the Commons' House to communicate a written message upon matters in which it is desirable that the two Houses should co-operate. At a "free conference" the subject of the written message may be taken into debate. Conferences of the old kind are now obsolete, having been practically superseded by informal negotiations between leading members of the two Houses.

CONTROVERTED ELECTIONS.

The trial of election petitions is regulated by a statute which transfers the entire jurisdiction to the Courts of Law. A petition complaining of an undue election must be presented within 21 days after the return of the writ, unless it questions the return on an allegation of corrupt practices, etc., in which case it may be presented at any time within 28 days after the day of payment. Thus the practice of promising at the election and paying after the time had elapsed for the presentation of a petition is met by permission being given to petition between 28 days after the payment of the bribe, whensoever made. At the time of presentation of a petition, or within three days after, security for £1,000 is to be given by those who present it for payment of all costs, charges, and expenses that may become payable by the petition.

COUNT-OUT.

If a member takes notice of the number present, the Speaker counts the House, and if forty members be not present, the Speaker adjourns the House without question put, till next sitting-day. Under the existing Standing Orders of the House cannot be counted out between 8.15 and 9.15 o'clock p.m. [See No House.]

COURTS OF REVISION.

[See Registration of Voters and Revising Barrister.]

DEMISE OF THE CROWN.

Since the Reform Act of 1867 the Demise of the Crown does not necessitate a Dissolution, but if at the time of the Sovereign's death Parliament happens to be adjourned or prorogued it must meet immediately. If, however, there is no Parliament in existence at the moment, the old Parliament again meets, and may serve for six months. Since 1901 the holding of any office under the Crown, whether within or without the British Dominions, is not affected by the Demise of the Crown.

DEPUTY CHAIRMAN, THE.

Presides in the absence of the Chairman of Ways and Means, when the House is in Committee, and may act as temporary Deputy Speaker in the absence of both the Speaker and the Chairman of Ways and Means.

DEPUTY SPEAKER. [See Chairman of Committee of Ways and Means, and Deputy Chairman.]

DISFRANCHISE. Is the act of taking away the privilege of the franchise.

DISQUALIFIED TO VOTE. Peers of the Realm (but not Peeresses); persons whose names do not appear upon the Register of Voters; men under twenty-one years of age (or nineteen if in naval or military employ); conscientious objectors (during the War and for five years after) with certain exceptions; lodgers in furnished rooms; women under the age of 30; non-British subjects; those legally incapacitated (i.e. those not of sound mind; those convicted of bribery or perjury, etc.).

DISSOLUTION. Is the civil death of the Parliament, and may be effected at pleasure by the Crown, or by length of time (five years). [Up to 1911 the maximum length of a Parliament was seven years.] It puts an end to the representative character of the members, and a new Parliament cannot be assembled until after a general election.

DIVISION, A. Is the mode of taking the votes of each House of Parliament. In the Commons, if the opinion of the Speaker or Chairman as to the decision of a question is challenged, he directs that the lobbies be cleared. After two minutes he puts the question again, and, if his opinion is still challenged, he nominates tellers, and directs the "ayes" and the "noes" to go into the right and left lobbies. Whilst members pass through the lobbies, clerks record the names of those present and the tellers count the numbers. The tellers then return to the House, and their report of the numbers is finally announced from the Chair.

DOUBLE ELECTION. A member returned by two constituencies must within seven days after the expiration of the time limited for the presentation of petitions against the returns, elect for which he will serve.

DOUBLE RETURN. When two members are returned for one vacancy, they are sworn and take their seats, but by the Speaker's direction withdraw below the bar; nor can they vote till the return has been adjudicated upon.

DROPPED ORDERS OF THE DAY. Are those Orders upon which no action is taken or directions given by the Member in charge. They drop from the Order Paper accordingly, but may be subsequently revived. Bills or Orders standing upon the order paper which are not reached, owing to an adjournment of the House, are set down on the paper for the next sitting-day. In default of directions from a Member in charge of a Bill on the Order paper it is dropped, but may be subsequently revived.

DUAL VOTING. At a General Election a person with the requisite qualifications may vote in two (but not more) constituencies.

ELECTION AUDITOR. Is an officer appointed annually, whose duty it is to take and publish an account of all expenses incurred at elections. Any payment made in respect of an election otherwise than through this official is declared to be illegal. [See Returning Officer's Expenses.]

ELECTION OF MEMBERS OF PARLIAMENT. Writs for the election of Members, on occasion of a New Parliament, are issued by the Lord Chancellor, acting upon warrant from the King in Council, and, during a Parliament, upon the Speaker's warrant, issued by order of the House when the House is sitting and under statutory provisions when the House is not sitting. At a General Election all nominations take place on one day, and all pollings at a later date, but also all on one day. The returning officer must give public notice of the time and place of the election; the nomination must be on the eighth day after the Proclamation calling the new Parliament, and the polling (if any) must be on the ninth day after the nomination. Candidates must be nominated in writing. If at the expiration of one hour after the time appointed for the election, no more candidates are nominated than there are vacancies to fill, the officer declares those candidates elected, and returns their names to the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery. But if the candidates nominated exceed the vacancies, the officer adjourns the election, and takes the poll, by ballot papers, according to a prescribed form. The officer at the close of the poll opens the ballot boxes and counts the papers, and returns the names of those who have the majority to the Clerk of the Crown, as elected candidates. In a contested election, polling-stations are provided, with compartments to enable voters to mark their votes, screened from observation. Each of these is presided over by officers appointed by the returning officer. The polling is commenced and carried on simultaneously at all the stations. The returning officer is to give public notice "as soon as possible" of the names of the elected candidates, and of the total number of votes given for each candidate. [See "Polling."] The officer then returns the writ, with the name or names of the person or persons elected endorsed thereon, "To the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery," to whom also all the documents relating to the election are delivered. Immediately after a public notice of election, an elected candidate is considered to be a member of Parliament, but cannot act as a legislator until he has taken the oaths.

ELECTION PETITIONS. [See Controverted Elections.]

ELEVEN O'CLOCK RULE. [See Time of Meeting.]

ESTATES OF THE REALM. The three estates of the realm are the three branches of the legislature—the Lords Spiritual, the Lords Temporal, and the Commons. The Sovereign, Lords, and Commons, in their united character, exercise none but legislative functions; they form the Parliament, and subject to the provisions of the Parliament Act (1911), no bill can become law unless all concur in it. In addition, each has separate functions peculiar to itself. In the Sovereign the whole executive authority is vested. The House of Lords exercises judicial authority as a court of ultimate appeal, and is a tribunal to which great officers of State, impeached by the Lower House, are amenable. The House of Commons is endowed with the sole control of the national expenditure, and with the levy of taxation to provide for that expenditure.

EXECUTIVE. [See Ministry, and also Cabinet.]

EXPULSION OF MEMBERS. is a power possessed by the House of Commons. It has been exercised from time to time to free Parliament from the presence of discreditable members, such as men found guilty of forgery, perjury, etc., or as a punishment for offences committed against the House.

"FATHER OF THE HOUSE OF COMMONS." An informal distinction bestowed upon the Member who has sat in Parliament for the longest unbroken period of time, irrespective of the Constituencies for which he may have been returned.

FINANCE. The financial concerns of the State devolve upon the Chancellor of the Exchequer.

FIRST LORD OF THE TREASURY. Is Chief of the Commissioners appointed to execute the office of Lord High Treasurer, but as such takes no great part in the management of the Treasury. He has several Civil Service appointments in his gift, and nominates to Crown livings and Civil List pensions. This is the position usually, though not always, taken by the Prime Minister or the Leader of the House of Commons.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS, SECRETARY OF STATE FOR. Has the exclusive charge of the interests of the British Empire and British subjects in foreign countries. He negotiates all treaties, leagues, and alliances with foreign states, either directly with the Foreign Minister at this Court, or through the British Ambassador abroad; and is the official organ and responsible adviser to the Crown in all communications between his Government and foreign powers.

FRANCHISE. In law, is defined as "a Royal privilege, or a branch of the Sovereign's prerogative subsisting in the hands of a subject." As applied to Parliament the term means the right to vote at an election for a member of Parliament. Under the Representation of the People Act (1918) the franchise extends to all men of full age (not subject to legal incapacity), and having the requisite residential or business premises qualification (six months); women on attaining the age of thirty and being entitled to be registered as Local Government Electors or whose husbands are so entitled; and those employed on war service on attaining the age of nineteen (i.e. naval and military employment, Red Cross work, etc., merchant seamen, pilots, and fishermen). University Franchise demands for men in England and Wales receipt of a degree (not honorary), while women must have fulfilled certain conditions.

FREEMEN. Are persons who have been admitted to the freedom of a corporate town, or of any other corporate body.

FRIDAY SITTINGS. The House meets every Friday (up to 1902 it used to be Wednesday) at twelve o'clock. Friday until Whitsuntide is set apart for the bills brought in by private members, and the House, unless previously adjourned, continues to sit until the business of the day is disposed of, or until 5.30 p.m. (no opposed business being taken after five). On the disposal of business, or at 5.30, the Speaker adjourns the House without putting any question, and the business under discussion, or undisposed of, stands among the orders of the day for the next sitting of the House.

GENERAL ELECTION. [See Election of Members.]

GOVERNMENT BUSINESS. Unless the House otherwise direct, Government business has precedence at every sitting except after 8.15 p.m. on Tuesday and Wednesday and at the sitting on Friday; after 8.15 p.m. on Tuesday and Wednesday notices of motions and public bills, other than Government bills, have precedence of Government business; after Easter, Government business has precedence during the whole of the Tuesday sittings; after Whitsuntide, Government business has precedence at all sittings, except on the third and fourth Fridays after Whit Sunday.

GOVERNMENT ORDERS, are the bills brought in by the Government and other Government business appointed by the House, which are entitled to be placed at the head of the list at sittings when Government business has precedence.

HEALTH, MINISTRY OF. This new Ministry has, among other activities, absorbed the functions of the Local Government Board.

HEMPHOLME. [See Chiltern Hundreds.]

HOME DEPARTMENT, SECRETARY OF STATE FOR. The duties and responsibilities of this high officer comprehend the maintenance of the internal peace of the United Kingdom, the security of the laws, and the general supervision of matters relating to the administration of criminal justice.

HOUSE OF COMMONS. According to the theory of the English constitution, the House of Commons represents the whole population, and it is unconstitutional to suppose that members are delegates of any special community. Each member is held to represent the interests of the nation. The proceedings of the Commons are regulated by standing orders, which are the permanent bye-laws of the House, by sessional orders renewed annually, and by the custom of Parliament, as embodied in rules and regulations established by usage, or laid down in the journals. The following is an outline of parliamentary practice:—A motion for the grant of public money may not be presently entered upon, but must be put to the vote on a future day in a Committee of the whole House, having received the previous recommendation of the Crown. Notice, as a rule, must be given of every motion, and, except in committee, it must be seconded. There must never be more than one question before the House at the same time. However many amendments may be proposed upon a motion, each one is separately disposed of. If there be a majority for any words standing part of a question to be put to the House, then a vote is taken on the question with these words in it. In case of the rejection of every amendment, then the original proposal, whatever it may be, motion or bill, is put to the vote, stripped of all the counter proposals which the debate has called forth. No member can thus be driven to vote for what he does not approve; for after having voted in favor of such amendments as he may propose to the original question, he can vote against it in the end. No motion or bill may be offered upon which a judgment has been expressed during the current session; a resolution may, however, be rescinded, or an order of the House discharged. A bill that has passed both Houses contains all the sentences and words composing the Act of Parliament to which the Royal Assent is given. When a member speaks, it must be to some question before the House, or to introduce a question. The mover of a substantive motion is permitted a reply, and those who have spoken to the original question may speak again when an amendment or a new question, such as the adjournment of the debate has been proposed; but otherwise no one is entitled to more than one opportunity of speaking on a question, except when the House is in Committee. No member may call another by his name; if it is desired to call personal attention to him, he must be referred to by his constituency, or by the office which he holds. Any member may interrupt another by "rising to order," i.e., calling the attention of the chair to the fact that a breach of order was then being committed. It is supposed to be out of order for a member to refer to debates in the House of Lords of the current Session. No bill is converted into law unless it has (subject to the provisions of the Parliament Act 1911) received the duly expressed approval of both Houses and has received the Royal Assent. Public bills for imposing taxes or charges begin with the Commons. Bills for restitution of honours and in blood (which are, however, very rare) begin in the Peers. A member who moves the adjournment of a debate is by courtesy entitled to speak first when the debate is resumed. But this rule does not apply to the renewal of debate in a Committee of the whole House. For the sake of convenience, certain parties—ministerial, opposition, or otherwise—group themselves on benches which they appropriate to themselves. When several members rise to address the House, the Speaker or Chairman signifies who shall have precedence; this is known as "catching the Speaker's eye." Reference to the opinions of the Sovereign to influence a decision of the House is irregular. Forty is the quorum of the Commons. [See Bills, Public.]

HOUSE OF LORDS. The House of Lords consists of all Royal and other peers (not being minors, of unsound mind, or bankrupt) who hold hereditary peerages of England, of Great Britain, and of the United Kingdom, all Life Peers, the Archbishops of Canterbury and York; the Bishops of London, Durham, and Winchester; twenty-one other bishops (exclusive of the Bishop of Sodor and Man, who has neither seat nor vote) according to seniority of consecration; any eldest sons of peers specially summoned in their father's lifetime; and sixteen Scotch (elected for duration of one Parliament only), and twenty-eight Irish (elected for life) representative peers. When the Roll of the Lords is called over in the House on the occasion of any public ceremony, it commences with the junior baron. [See Bills, Public.]

HOUSES OF PARLIAMENT. The old Houses of Parliament were burned in October, 1834, but it was not until February 26th, 1840, that the first stone of the new edifice was laid, Sir Charles Barry being the architect. The building did not proceed very rapidly, for though the House of Lords was used in 1847, it was not until 1852 that the Houses were formally opened by Queen Victoria. Even then the Royal or Victoria Tower, at the south-west angle, was not finished. This is the highest tower in the world; there are spires that are higher, but no towers. It is 75 ft. square and 345 ft. high. The tower at Mechlin, which is half spire and half tower, and the next highest, is only 348 ft. to the top of the vane, while to the top of the vane of the Victoria Tower is 420—upwards of 60 ft. higher than the top of the cross of St. Paul's. This majestic tower could only be raised at the rate of 30 ft. per annum, it being necessary to let the work settle, so that it was not finished till 1857. The whole block of buildings, which forms the largest Gothic edifice in the world, covers an area of about nine acres, and presents a continuous frontage of nearly 1000 ft. to the river; the Victoria and Clock Towers being respectively at the southern and northern extremities. Seen from the river there is a centre part with towers, two wings, and a tower at each end. The exterior is formed of magnesian limestone from Anston in Yorkshire, and the interior of Caen stone, while the building is rendered fireproof by having all the beams and girders made of iron, and the arches between the floors of brick. Facing the building towards the river, the House of Lords is in the right, the House of Commons in the left wing. Between them is the Central Hall, which is reached from the principal public entrances through St. Stephen's Hall, and in which are statues of Hampden, Falkland, Clarendon, Selden, Somers, Sir Robert Walpole, Lord Mansfield, Lord Chatham, Pitt, Fox, Burke, and Grattan. The walls of the corridors leading from the two Houses of Parliament to this hall are covered with celebrated fresco paintings by Cope, Ward, and others, of historical subjects, such as "The Departure of the Pilgrim Fathers," "The Last Sleep of Argyll," etc. The House of Lords is nearly 100 ft. long by 45 ft. wide and 45 ft. high. The length extends from south to north, and it is lighted by six windows at each side, and the ceiling, which is horizontal (not arched), is divided by ribs, carved and gilt, into eighteen compartments, each of which is again subdivided into five panels bearing heraldic devices on an azure ground. At each extremity of the chamber, and at a distance of about 20 ft. from the ground, which is the level of the windows, are three compartments filled with fresco paintings. There are also 18 niches between the windows and at each end of the House, containing statues of the Magna Charta barons. The Reporters' Gallery, and that for Strangers, are at the north end of the House, while opposite to them, at the south end, is the Throne. Galleries for peeresses are at each side. The Royal Gallery, 110 ft. long by 45 ft. wide, contains the two famous pictures, 45 by 12 ft. each, representing the meeting of Wellington and Blücher, and the death of Nelson respectively. The "Woolsack," on which the Lord Chancellor sits as Speaker, is in front of the Throne and in the body of the House, and its origin is supposed to signify the importance of wool to the national prosperity, when the export of that commodity was forbidden in the reign of Queen Elizabeth; on each side of it are five rows of seats covered with red morocco leather, the upper seats being reached by narrow stairs. The "Bar" is at the north end, opposite the Throne and the "Woolsack." Beyond the House of Lords to the south are the Peers' Robing Room and the King's Robing Room. At the opening of Parliament all peeresses and the eldest sons of peers are entitled to seats in the House of Lords to view the ceremony. The House of Commons is, like the House of Lords, 45 ft. broad by 45 ft. high, but it is only 60 ft. long, space being economised as much as possible for acoustic reasons. The Speaker's Chair is at the north end of the chamber, and at the opposite or south end are the Strangers' Gallery and the gallery for Distinguished Visitors. At each side are galleries (containing two rows of seats) for the use of Members of the House. The Reporters' Gallery is at the north end, and the Ladies' Gallery is above it. The Clerk's Table is before the Speaker's Chair, with the Speaker's mace resting at its southern end. The leading Members of the party that is in office sit on the front row of seats by the side of this table, and on the right hand of the Speaker. Facing them on the front row at his left are the leaders of the Opposition party. The division lobbies are on the east and west sides of the House, and the "Bar" is at the south side, facing the Speaker. The Clock Tower, containing "Big Ben," is at the northern end of the building. It is 40 ft. square, and, with the belfry and spire, about 320 ft. high.

INDIA, THE SECRETARY OF STATE FOR. Has the control of all matters connected with our Indian Empire.

INSTRUCTION, AN, empowers a Committee of the whole House to consider matters not otherwise referred to them, and restricts or extends the order of reference to a Select Committee.

"I SPY A STRANGER." The terms in which a Member notifies the Speaker that a stranger is present in the House.

KNIGHT OF THE SHIRE. The designation by which the representative of a county or shire was, before the Ballot Act of 1872, distinguished from the representative of a borough.

LE ROY LE VEULT. The words in which the King gives the Royal Assent to public general bills.

LE ROY REMERCIE SES BONS SUJETS, ACCEPTE LEUR BENEVOLENCE, ET AINSI LE VEULT. The words in which the King gives the Royal Assent to a bill of supply.

LE ROY S'AVISERA. The words in which the King might refuse the Royal Assent to a bill.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE from the service of the House is granted to members for a specified time, on reasonable cause assigned.

LETTERS addressed to members at the House of Commons are kept by a clerk from the General Post Office, who attends during the sitting of the House, and also from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m., and delivers them only to the members personally, or to their authorised representatives. All letters or communications directed to the House are opened by the Speaker.

LIFE OF PARLIAMENT. [See Parliament Act.]

LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOARD. Used to be the central authority for County, Municipal, Sanitary, and Poor Law administration in England and Wales; it included several high Officers of State, but practically the responsibility rested with the President, who was assisted by a Parliamentary and a Permanent Secretary, as well as other officials. This Department was in 1919 absorbed by the new Ministry of Health.

LODGER FRANCHISE. Those in furnished rooms are not qualified to vote.

LORD ADVOCATE, THE. Is the principal law officer of the Crown and public prosecutor in Scotland, and when the Secretary for Scotland is a Peer he is intrusted with the conduct of Scotch business in the House of Commons.

LORD PRIVY SEAL, THE. Has the custody of the Privy Seal, which he must not put to any grant without good warrant under the Monarch's signet. The seal is used to all charters, grants, and pardons signed by the Sovereign, before they come to the Great Seal. He is appointed by letters patent, and takes rank next to the Lord President of the Council, and before Dukes.

MALE VOTERS. [See Franchise.]

MANORS OF NORTHSTEAD AND HEMPHOLME. [See Chiltern Hundreds.]

MEMBERS' GALLERY. Persons (men or women) desirous of admission should make written application to a member who can ballot for two places, six days in advance. If the member is successful in the ballot, a ticket of admission, bearing a number, corresponding to one on the counterfoil, will then be issued, either to the member himself, or to the visitor, if the name and address are supplied to the Admission Order Office. A person presenting the ticket of admission is required to sign the name and write the address given on the written application and entered on the counterfoil. After 4.15 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, and after 12.15 p.m. on Friday, a visitor, on application at the Admission Order Office, will be given an order which will admit to the Members' Gallery when there is a seat vacant on that day. The Special Gallery and "Under the Gallery" are filled by the application of members to the Serjeant-at-Arms at the Admission Order Office six days in advance, and orders to fill vacancies during the sitting of the House after 4.15 p.m. (and 12.15 p.m. on Friday) are only granted on the personal application of members to the Serjeant-at-Arms in his Chair.

MEMBERS' LOBBY. This is strictly reserved for peers and members only, and for such permanent officials, secretaries of Ministers, and others as the Speaker may include in a special list.

MEMBERS OF PARLIAMENT. Both men (on attaining the age of 21) and women are now eligible for election to sit in the House of Commons. Members are under a constitutional obligation to attend the service of the House; and the House is empowered to punish neglect of this duty by committal to custody. The service on Committees may be enforced in like manner. Having secured a seat at Prayers, a member is entitled to retain the same until the rising of the House. A card may be placed on any seat before the hour of Prayers, but a claim to the seat is not recognised unless the Member be present at Prayers. This indulgence is authorised for the benefit of Members serving on Committees. [See Payment of Members.]

MINISTERS WITHOUT PORTFOLIO.

These are restricted to three in number and must be Members of the Privy Council.

MINISTRY, THE. Is the administration which exercises the powers of the Crown, in accord with Parliament, and more especially with the House of Commons. Some eminent party leader, who either has, or who hopes to obtain, the confidence of the majority of the House of Commons, is authorized by the Sovereign to form a Ministry, the members of which he selects from those favourable to his policy, he himself being the Prime Minister, and taking commonly, though not always, the office of First Lord of the Treasury. Ministers who are not Peers should be members of the House of Commons. The Ministry exercises supreme authority, and includes the executive, the legislative, and the judicial powers of the Crown, and in it for the time being the whole of the governing power of the Sovereign is vested. [See Cabinet and Seals of Office.]

MONEY BILLS. The right of granting Aids and Supplies is in the Commons alone as an essential part of their Constitution, and the House of Commons has in its own hands the power to impose and remit Taxes and to frame Bills of Supply. If a Money Bill, as defined by the Parliament Act (1911), is not passed by the House of Lords without amendment one month after it is sent up (at least one month before the end of a session) to that House, it may be presented direct to His Majesty for the Royal Assent. With the Speaker rests the decision whether a Bill is a Money Bill as so defined or not.

MOTION, A. The offer of a substantive proposition for adoption by the House, such as a motion for leave to bring in a bill, or of a resolution expressive of an abstract opinion. [See also Notices of Motion.]

NAMED. For a member to be named by the Speaker, is a signification that in his opinion he has incurred the displeasure of the House. [See Suspension.]

NOES. Members voting against a motion.

NO HOUSE. There is "No House" if, upon notice taken, it appears that forty members are not present; but when the Commons are summoned by the Sovereign, or the Royal Commissioners, to attend at the bar of the House of Lords, any number of members constitutes a House. [See Count-out.]

NORTHSTEAD. [See Chiltern Hundreds.]

NOTICES OF MOTIONS. The notice of an intended motion must as a rule appear on the business paper of the House on the day when it is to be moved. The period after 8.15 p.m. on Tuesday and Wednesday is appointed for the consideration of notices of motions before the bills set down for those sittings. The order in which notices of motions stand is determined by a ballot.

OATHS OF MEMBERS. New members may take and subscribe the oath at any time during the sitting of the House, before the orders of the day and notices of motions have been entered upon, or after they have been disposed of, but no debate nor business may be interrupted for that purpose.

OPENING OF PARLIAMENT. Parliament is opened either by the Sovereign in person or by Royal Commission. When Parliament is opened by the Sovereign in person, His Majesty being robed in rich crimson velvet with a train of great length, trimmed with heavy gold lace and lined throughout with Royal ermine (spotted symmetrically with some 10,000 pieces of black fur) in the Robing Room, and the Imperial Crown (when not worn by the Sovereign) being borne by the Lord President of the Council, the Procession advances into the House of Peers, the Cap of Maintenance being borne immediately before His Majesty, on the right hand of the Sword of State. Their Majesties' procession customarily takes the following form:—

SERJEANT-AT-ARMS.

SERJEANT-AT-ARMS.

The King being seated on his Throne, the Lord bearing the Cap of Maintenance stands on the Steps of the Throne on the right, and the Peer bearing the Sword of State on the left. The Great Officers of State are grouped as follows:—The Lord Chancellor, the Lord President, and the Earl Marshal stand on the right, and the Lord Privy Seal on the left, of His Majesty; the Lord Great Chamberlain stands on the Steps of the Throne on the left hand of the Sovereign, to receive the Royal Commands. The Lord Steward and the other officers of the Household arrange themselves on each side of the Steps of the Throne, in the rear of the Great Officers of State. When His Majesty retires, the Procession returns to the Robing Room, where His Majesty unrobes. The Cap of Maintenance is borne only from the Robing Room to and from the House, and when the Imperial Crown is not worn by the King, it is carried before His Majesty by the Peer appointed to carry it, who takes his place on the right hand of the Throne, next to the Earl Marshal. The old State Chair occupied by the Sovereign on these occasions was designed by Augustus Welby Pugin, the eminent architect, who was employed in the designing, erection, and decoration of the Houses of Parliament; it has been in the House of Lords since the completion of that Chamber, and was used by Queen Victoria when she opened or prorogued Parliament in person. The State Chair provided for the Queen Consort is an exact replica of the old, but an inch and a half lower. The frame is mahogany elaborately carved, but the wood is nowhere visible, being entirely covered with a rich gilding of English leaf-gold; the legs rest upon four lions couchant, and the back is surmounted by a lion and a unicorn holding scrolls, while in the centre is a representation of the Imperial Crown. In the middle of the back are the quarterings of the Royal Arms of England, embroidered with gold-coloured silk on crimson velvet, with a surrounding border studded with pieces of rock crystal. The cushion to the seat is also of crimson velvet richly embroidered with the white Tudor rose and leafage. There is also an oblong gilded footstool to match.

ORDER. [See Speaker, etc.]

ORDERS OF THE DAY, THE. Are the bills or matters set down for consideration on a particular day. [See Government Orders.]

“PAIRING” is a method of definitely neutralising the votes of two Members of opposite parties when absent from the House.

PARLIAMENT. Is the name of the supreme legislature of the United Kingdom. It was first used in the reign of Henry III. [See Estates of the Realm.]

PARLIAMENT ACT. The main provisions of the Parliament Act 1911 (1 & 2 George V. c. 13) are: (1) If the Lords withhold their assent to a money bill for more than one month after the bill has reached them, the bill may be presented for the King's assent, and, on that assent being given, will become law without the consent of the Lords. The Act gives a definition of a “money bill,” and it is for the Speaker of the House of Commons to certify that a bill falls within the definition. Before giving his certificate he is to consult two Members of the House of Commons for that purpose. (2) If a bill other than a money bill is passed by the Commons in three successive Sessions, whether of the same Parliament or not, it may, on a third rejection by the Lords, be presented for the King's assent, and, on that assent being given, will become law. But two years must elapse between the date of the second reading in the first of those Sessions and the date at which the bill passes the Commons a third time. Provision is made against the identity of a bill being destroyed by the introduction of amendments made necessary by lapse of time or agreed to by both Houses. (3) Five years was substituted for seven years as the maximum duration of a Parliament. [This period was specially extended on several occasions during the War.]

PARLIAMENTARY AGENT. Is a professional gentleman who acts as Solicitor in promoting private bills.

PARLIAMENTARY SECRETARY TO THE TREASURY. Also known as the Patronage Secretary to the Treasury. [See below.]

PATRONAGE SECRETARY TO THE TREASURY, THE. Is the Parliamentary Secretary to the Treasury, but is also so-called, as he exercises certain patronage with reference to the following appointments: Actuaries authorized to certify annuity tables; collectors of income-tax (Ireland); County Court Examiners; distributors and sub-distributors of stamps; female typists in the Treasury and Revenue Offices; house-keepers and housemaids (i.e., charwomen) at the National Gallery, National Portrait Gallery, Wallace Collection, National Gallery of British Art, and Inland Revenue Offices (Scotland); artificer, boy, laboratory attendant, and packer and teller at the Mint; office-keeper and established messengers at the Treasury and Revenue Offices; attendants at the National Galleries; porters at the Revenue Offices and National Galleries; pensioner messengers at the Revenue Offices (Scotland) and the National Galleries; preventive men at the Customs; and public auditors and public valuers for the Registry of Friendly Societies.

PAYMENT OF MEMBERS. Members of Parliament other than Ministers—i.e. all salaried Members of the Government—now receive £400 per annum.

PERSONS DISQUALIFIED TO SIT AS MEMBERS OF PARLIAMENT. Every member of the House of Lords, the Representative Peers of Ireland, all Scottish Peers (whether Representative or otherwise), clergymen of the Established Church, Roman Catholic priests, aliens, bankrupts, “conscientious objectors” (for 5 years after the War), and persons attainted of treason or felony.

PETITIONS. Every subject has the right of petitioning the Sovereign, or either House of Parliament, for the redress of grievances. Petitions to Parliament must be drawn up according to prescribed rules; those to the House of Lords must be addressed, To the Right Honorable the Lords Spiritual and Temporal in Parliament Assembled; and those to the House of Commons must be directed, To the Honorable the Knights, Citizens, and Burgesses of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland in Parliament Assembled; or, To the Honorable the Commons of the United Kingdom in Parliament Assembled. Electors commence their petition as, The Humble Petition of the Electors of the Parish of ———, sheweth that, etc., and a private individual must set forth his name and occupation thus.—The Humble Petition of Thomas Charles Burd, coal merchant, sheweth that, etc. Following this must be mentioned the grievance for which relief is desired, and the whole must conclude with a specific prayer, as, Wherefore your Petitioners humbly pray that your Honorable House will be pleased to, etc. Here must follow particulars of the special relief that is asked for, the concluding sentence being, And your petitioners, as in duty bound, will ever pray. If the prayer be omitted, the petition is returned to the Member who presented it, as the House will not attend to a mere statement of grievances. Immediately following the prayer must be written the signatures, one of which, at least, must be written on the same skin of parchment, or sheet of paper, as the petition. All signatures or marks must be original, procuration not being in any case allowed, except in cases of incapacity by sickness, for either a single individual or any body of persons, but the common seal of a corporation is acknowledged as a petition of the whole corporate body. Every petition must be written upon paper or parchment, be free from erasures or interlineation, and written in the English language, or accompanied by a literal translation which the member presenting it certifies to be correct; but no letters, affidavits, or other documents will be received. Only those signatures are reckoned as valid which are written on sheets headed in every case by the prayer of the petition; but on every sheet after the first the prayer may be reproduced in print, or by other mechanical process. Petitions are rejected which contain intemperate language, or imputations upon the character or conduct of either House of Parliament, the Courts of Justice, or other constituted authorities. Reference is not allowed to be made to any debates, or to matters therein referred to, but petitions may refer to motions of which due notice has been given: while petitions praying for a grant of public money, or charge upon the revenues of India, or for the remission of taxes or dues, are not received except on the recommendation of the Crown. Every member presenting a petition must affix his name at the beginning thereof, and is presumed to know that the standing regulations respecting petitions have been complied with. No debate is allowed when petitions are laid upon the table, and they stand referred to the Committee on Public Petitions, without any question being put; but if the petition relate to a subject with respect to which the member presenting it has given notice of a motion, and the petition has not been ordered to be printed by the Committee, such member may, after notice given, move that such petition be printed with the votes. Petitions under two pounds in weight may be forwarded by post, free of charge, to any member of either House, in parcels open at each end, and marked outside "Parliamentary Petitions." In virtue of an ancient privilege, the Sheriffs of London and the Lord Mayor of Dublin may appear at the Bar of the House of Commons to present petitions in person, but may not speak.

PETITIONS, ELECTION. [See Election Petitions.]

POLLING. At a General Election all nominations are made on the same day (8th after Proclamation), and all pollings also take place on one and the same day (9th after day of nomination). At Bye-Elections the polling is from four to eight clear days after nomination. Absent voters can poll by proxy. [At Elections held during the European War and for 12 months afterwards an interval of 11 days (excluding Sundays) was allowed to elapse between the day of polling and the day for counting the votes.]

POSTMASTER-GENERAL, THE. Is sometimes a Cabinet Minister. He negotiates postal treaties with foreign powers, makes contracts for the conveyance of the public mails at home and with the colonies, superintends the whole department of the Post Office, is appointed by patent under the Great Seal, and sworn in before the Lord President of the Council.

POT-WALLOPERS. A term formerly applied to voters in certain boroughs, where all who boil a pot were entitled to vote. Another name was "potwallers," which is said by some to have been a mistake for pot boilers, "b" having been mistaken for "w."

PREVIOUS QUESTION, THE. Is a mode of attempting to avoid a direct expression of opinion upon a motion. It is effected in the House of Lords by proposing, in lieu of the original motion, a motion "that the original question be now put." A vote is taken on this, and if negatived the original motion is practically rejected; although the motion might be proposed again at a subsequent sitting. In the Commons the method of procedure is reversed, and the form adopted is "that the question be not now put."

PRIME MINISTER, THE. Is the head of His Majesty's Government, is the connecting link between the Crown and the Cabinet, selects his colleagues in the Ministry, and is virtually responsible for the entire patronage of the Crown. His official position is usually that of First Lord of the Treasury. His precedence was formally recognized Dec. 1905 as next after the Archbishop of York. The official country residence is Chequers, Princes Risborough, Bucks, which was presented to the nation by Lord and Lady Lee of Fareham, Oct. 1920.

PRIVATE BILLS. Are those introduced by companies or individuals for the purpose of enabling them to undertake works of utility at their own risk, and for their own benefit, or for procuring naturalization, change of name, etc. Private bills are brought in upon petitions signed by the suitors or their agents. The fees payable for promoting or opposing a private bill are stated in the Standing Orders. [See Bills, Public.]

PRIVILEGE, A QUESTION OF, is founded on a matter directly concerning the privileges of the House. If it has recently arisen, and calls for its immediate interposition, such a matter may be considered without notice, and takes precedence of all other business.

PRIVILEGES OF MEMBERS. Every member is entitled to freedom of speech, to freedom from arrest and distress of goods, and to exemption from service on juries.

[As to Introduction of Strangers, see Members' Gallery.]

PROCEDURE. [See House of Commons.]

PROPORTIONAL REPRESENTATION. Is only applied to University constituencies returning more than one member (i.e. to 11 seats).

PROROGATION OF PARLIAMENT. Is an interruption of its sitting by Royal authority. The Crown may, notwithstanding the prorogation, summon Parliament for the despatch of business, by giving six days' notice by proclamation. Parliament is never prorogued for more than 80 days at one time, but this period can be extended by subsequent proclamation. Every bill and other proceeding, save impeachments, must be renewed after a prorogation.

PROXY VOTING. Voting by proxy is allowed in the case of naval and military voters in distant parts, fishermen, pilots, etc.

PUBLIC BILLS. [See Bills, Public.]

QUESTION, A. When a motion has been moved and seconded, the Speaker proposes to the House the question for their decision. Questions (restricted to three per diem by any one Member) may be asked Members of the Government at the commencement of the business each day.

REDISTRIBUTION OF SEATS. The Representation of the People Act (1918) provided for a Redistribution of Seats and an increase in the number of Members, from 670 to 707.

REGISTRATION OFFICER. Each registration area has a Registration Officer whose duty it is to prepare the Spring and Autumn registers. His fees are paid half by Parliament and half from the rates, and he is also Acting Returning Officer.

REGISTRATION OF VOTERS. Two Registers are prepared each year: the Spring Register for the qualifying period ending Jan. 15th comes into force on April 15th, and the Autumn Register for the qualifying period ending June 15th takes effect on Oct. 15th.

REPORTING. A gallery is set apart for the exclusive use of newspaper reporters, and official reports are also made of the parliamentary proceedings.

REPRESENTATION OF THE PEOPLE ACT (1918). This extended the Franchise to women who have reached the age of thirty, and to men on war service, adding more than 13,000,000 voters to the Register.

RESIGNATION OF SEATS. [See Vacating Seats.]

RETURNING OFFICER'S EXPENSES. The charges of the returning officer are paid by the Treasury, which prescribes a maximum scale.

ROYAL ASSENT, THE. The Royal Assent to bills that have passed the Houses of Parliament has not been withheld since the year 1707. It is given either by the Sovereign in person, or by Commissioners appointed for that special purpose. The Commissioners are usually three or four of the high officers of State. As soon as the Royal Assent has been given, the Bill immediately becomes an Act, having the effect and force of law.

SCOT AND LOT. Parish payments. When persons were taxed not to the same amount, but according to their ability, they were said to pay "scot and lot."

SCOTLAND, THE SECRETARY FOR. Has the control of all matters connected with Scotland.

SEALS OF OFFICE. When a change of Government takes place two Councils are held, at the first of which the various offices are given up, and the Ministers appointed under seal thereupon hand back their seals to the Sovereign; at the second the successors in office kiss hands on appointment and take over the relinquished seals. Secretaries of State (except for Air) are appointed under patent, so that in their case there are no seals to give up. On a reconstruction of a Ministry one Council only is usually necessary.

SELECTION, THE COMMITTEE OF. Nominates the members on, and arranges the sitting and business of private-bill committees, and is also charged with the nomination of the Standing Committees.

SENIOR MEMBER, THE. Is the member returned at the head of the poll, not the member who has served the constituency the longest time.

SERGEANT-AT-ARMS, THE. Is an officer appointed by patent under the Great Seal, attached to the House, who is styled "the Serjeant-at-Arms attending the Speaker of the House of Commons." He is assisted by a deputy and several subordinates, and is also Housekeeper of the House of Commons. During the sitting of the House he occupies a chair below the bar, and to him is delegated the maintenance of order in the approaches to the House and the adjoining offices. His duties are performed under the directions of the House, communicated to him by the Speaker. He apprehends and retains in custody all persons committed by order of the House.

SESSION. The Session of Parliament continues from the time of its meeting until it is either prorogued or dissolved. The House of Commons limits to one year the duration of the Army Annual Act, and votes the supplies for the public service by grants limited to the current year. The Crown is therefore compelled to resort to an annual assemblage of Parliament, which usually takes place early in February. Six days at least, but generally thirty or forty days, previous to the intended meeting, a proclamation is issued by the Crown, commanding the attendance of both Houses for despatch of business, usually at Westminster, but it may be at any place within the United Kingdom. The business usually transacted at the commencement of every Session is to consider the Speech from the Throne. One Bill, however, always receives a first reading, in order to assert the right of Parliament to protect the interests of the people before considering the subjects contained in the Royal Speech. No number or length of adjournments destroys the continuity of the Session. [See also Prorogation.]

SESSIONAL ORDERS are agreed to at the commencement of each Session, and are not intended to continue beyond that period.

SITTINGS. On Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday the House usually sits from 2.45 to 11 p.m.; or, for non-contentious business until 11.30 p.m. There is, as a rule, no sitting on Saturday, and on Friday (when the House meets at 12) the adjournment takes place not later than 5.30 o'clock.

SOIT FAIT COMME IL EST DESIRÉ. The words in which the Royal Assent is given to Private Bills.

SOLICITOR-GENERAL. Is the legal adviser of the Crown, who ranks next to the Attorney-General.

SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

Is the representative of its powers, authority, and dignity. His chief duties are to preside over the deliberations of the House, to put the question, and declare the determination of the House. In the conduct of the debates, the Speaker calls on those members to address the House who, in his opinion, are entitled to precedence; he promptly and decisively represses disorder, and gives effect to the rules and regulations of the House. When he rises to enforce a point of order, the House is immediately silent; and his decision, based as far as possible on precedent, is, as a rule, accepted without cavil. But still the ultimate authority, upon all points, is the House itself. He also presents to the Sovereign addresses from the Commons, when they are ordered to be presented to the whole House; reprimands persons who have incurred the displeasure of the House; issues warrants of committal for breach of privilege; communicates with any parties, when so instructed by the House; exercises a general control over the business of the House, both public and private; expresses the thanks or approbation of the Commons to distinguished personages; adjourns the House if forty members are not present, and appoints Tellers on a division. Under the Standing Orders, the Speaker may withhold his assent to a motion for the closure of a debate; he may, after continued irrelevance on the part of a member, direct him to discontinue his speech, or if a motion for adjournment be, in his opinion, an abuse of the forms of the House, the Speaker may forthwith put the question thereon. He has, however, to select the amendments to be moved to bills or motions. The Speaker may also direct a Member, whose conduct is grossly disorderly, to withdraw during the remainder of that day's sitting. He does not speak, except in his official capacity; nor does he vote except to give a casting vote when the numbers are equal. It is to him a Member addresses his remarks, and it is irregular for a Member to direct his remarks to the House or to any Member of the House. With the Speaker rests the decision whether a bill is or is not a Money Bill within the meaning of the Parliament Act (1911), and he nominates the Members of the House of Commons to serve on the Ecclesiastical Committee under the Church of England Assembly (Powers) Act, 1919. He is elected at the commencement of each Parliament (the Clerk of the House presiding at the election), and holds office until a dissolution. He gives state dinners to as many of the House as he can entertain, between the commencement of the Session and the Easter holidays. He receives a salary of £5,000 a year, and has a furnished residence; is a member of the Privy Council, and ranks next after the Lord Pres of the Council. It is customary for the Speaker, on retiring from office, to be created a peer, and to receive a pension of £4,000 a year. When incapacitated from attending to his duties, his place is occupied by the Chairman of Ways and Means or the Deputy Chairman if the Chairman be absent.

"SPEAKER'S EYE." [See House of Commons.]

SPEECHES may not be read in the House by members without special permission.

STANDING COMMITTEES. [See Committees.]

STANDING ORDERS. Are for the permanent guidance and order of proceedings. They have been agreed to at various times, and if not repealed endure in force from one Parliament to another. One of these orders has been in force since March 29th, 1707.

STRANGERS, ADMISSION OF. Persons going to the offices of the House, on business, are admitted at such offices at all times. When the committees and Court of Appeal are not sitting, none but persons going to the offices of the House are admitted; all others are stopped at the door of St. Stephen's Hall. When Committees and the House of Lords (as a Court of Appeal) are sitting, persons proceeding to them are permitted to enter the Committee Rooms, House of Lords, and offices pertaining thereto only. During the sitting of the House no visitor is admitted to the Central Hall, unless he wishes to see a member, or has a ticket of admission to one of the galleries. No persons, except those having such tickets of admission, are permitted to go beyond the central and lower waiting halls, nor to enter the dining, tea, and smoking rooms, nor to go on the terrace, even though accompanied by a member. The Members' Lobby is strictly reserved for peers and members only, and for such permanent officials, secretaries of Ministers, and others, whose names are placed by the Speaker on a special list. Parliamentary agents are admitted to the Members' Lobby till half-past five o'clock p.m. None but ladies having their names on the list are permitted to enter the Ladies' Gallery Door, in the Speaker's Yard. After four o'clock p.m. the subway under Bridge Street may be closed to all but members or persons going on business to the House. The following rules are now in force for the admission of strangers to the galleries of the House:—Orders in Advance—(1) Orders for under the gallery, the Special Gallery, and the Members' Gallery are issued to members six days in advance. The ballot for seats in the Members' Gallery takes place when necessary. Every order must be signed by a member, and the name and address of the holder inscribed thereon. (2) Seats in the Ladies' Gallery are balloted for. Two orders will be sent to each member successful in the ballot. These orders will be only available for relatives of the member, and must be signed by the member, and the names and addresses of the ladies must be filled in before admission. During the sitting of the House—(a) Orders of admission (except to the Ladies' Gallery) for the same day are issued after a quarter past four p.m. (a quarter past twelve p.m. on Fridays) from the Admission Order Office in St. Stephen's Hall. (b) Applicants for vacant seats in the Members' Gallery go direct to the Admission Order Office and obtain orders of admission, without applying to a member. An applicant may be required, however, to give a member's name as a reference, in case of necessity before being admitted. (c) Admission to the Special Gallery and under the gallery are only granted on the personal application of a member to the Serjeant-at-Arms. (d) For the Ladies' Gallery supplemental orders are issued during the sitting of the House, at 4.15 p.m. and 9 p.m. Ladies are now also admitted to the Strangers' Gallery. [See also "I Spy a Stranger."]

SUPPLY, COMMITTEE OF. A Committee of the whole House, which considers the Government resolutions for granting to the Crown the sums necessary for conducting the various branches of the public service. These resolutions, having been considered and agreed to by the House, receive effect by Consolidated Fund Acts, passed from time to time during the session, subject, at its close, to a final appropriation to the services of the year by the "Appropriation Bill," which, after it has passed the House of Lords, is carried by the Speaker to the bar of the Upper House to receive the Royal Assent. The business of Supply is the first order of the day on Thursday, unless otherwise ordered by the House. Not more than 20 days, being days before the 5th of August, are allotted for the consideration of the annual estimates for the Army, Navy, Air Force, and Civil Services, including votes on account. An additional 3 days either before or after 5th of August may be allotted for the business of Supply on motion made after notice by a Minister of the Crown.

SUSPENSION from the service of the House is a punishment imposed on members who have been named by the Speaker or the Chairman of Committees, for an infraction of the rules of the House of Commons. The effect of an amendment made in the Standing Orders in 1902 is that an Order of Suspension made in pursuance of Standing Orders remains in force until the end of the Session, unless previously revoked. But suspension may be ordered otherwise than in pursuance of Standing Orders.

SWEARING IN. The administration of the oath or affirmation to the members of the House of Commons at the beginning of a new Parliament is conducted in the following manner :—The oath is administered, in the first instance, to such Members as are of His Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council and to Members who have held office under the Crown, and then to such Members as may present themselves for that purpose at the table. The oath is administered to Members singly, and in order that the process of signing the roll and the introduction of Members to the Speaker may be conducted with due regularity, Members occupying various benches come to the table in an order prescribed by the Speaker. Members should not leave the table until they have signed the roll and have been introduced to Mr. Speaker.

TELLER. Is a member appointed by the Speaker when a division takes place, to count the number of members voting for or against a motion. Two are appointed for each side.

"THAT I DO NOW LEAVE THE CHAIR." Is the question put by the Speaker on the occasions when it is needful, before the whole House goes into Committee.

"THAT THE ORDERS OF THE DAY BE NOW READ." That the House proceed to the business of the day without further decision taking place on the motion then under discussion.

"THIS DAY SIX (OR THREE) MONTHS." The motion that a bill be read a second time upon this day six months, is the ordinary mode of moving its rejection.

TIME OF MEETING. The House meets on Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays at a quarter to three o'clock, when the Chaplain reads prayers. The business of each sitting is conducted according to the following routine :—When private business has been disposed of—i.e., usually about three o'clock—the putting of questions to members of the Government begins, and continues until 3.45, after which questions of special public importance or relating to the arrangement of business may be asked. The real work of the day is then entered upon, and the regular business of the sitting is commenced, namely, the consideration of the orders or motions set down for that day. The House continues business until half-past eleven o'clock unless previously adjourned, but only unopposed business is taken after eleven o'clock, unless what is called the "eleven o'clock rule" is suspended. On Fridays the House meets at noon.

TREATING. [See Bribery.]

UNDER SECRETARIES OF STATE. Two of these are attached to the office of each Secretary of State, one being usually permanent, and the other dependent upon the administration in power.

UNDUE INFLUENCE. [See Bribery.]

UNION, THE. Denotes the Act by which the two separate kingdoms of England and Scotland were incorporated into one under the title of the Kingdom of Great Britain. The first Parliament subsequent to the Union met Oct. 23rd, 1707. The Union of Great Britain and Ireland took place on January 1st, 1801.

VACATING SEATS. By accepting an office of emolument from the Crown, a member at once vacates his seat. It is customary for a member who wishes to resign to apply for the sinecure Stewardship of His Majesty's Chiltern Hundreds, or of the Manor of Northstead (for seats thus vacated no re-election can take place during recess). [See also Chiltern Hundreds and Writs.]

VOTERS. [See Disqualified to Vote, Franchise, and Women Voters.]

VOTES AND PROCEEDINGS, THE. Are the entries printed and published daily of the transactions of the House made at the table by the clerks, from which the journals are compiled.

WAR, THE SECRETARY OF STATE FOR. Has the general control and direction of the army, in which he is assisted by the Army Council, of which he is ex-officio a member.

WAYS AND MEANS, COMMITTEE OF. A Committee of the whole House, which regulates the issue of public money, to meet the grants voted in the Committee of Supply, and sanctions the imposition of the taxes necessary for the service of the current year. [See Chairman of Committee on Ways and Means.]

WOMEN MEMBERS. An Act was passed in 1918 making Women eligible to sit as Members of Parliament in the House of Commons.

WOMEN VOTERS. The Representation of the People Act (1918) extended the Franchise to women over thirty years of age (not subject to legal incapacity) and entitled, or whose husbands are entitled, to be registered as Local Government Electors (i.e. 6 months' ownership or tenancy of land or premises).

WOOLSACK. [See Houses of Parliament.]

WORKS, OFFICE OF. The Commissioners of Works and Public Buildings are responsible for the Public Buildings of Great Britain. The Chief Commissioner represents the Department in Parliament.

WRITS. In the event of a vacancy arising during the recess of Parliament from death, or from becoming a Peer, or from acceptance of an office of profit under the Crown, other than the Stewardship of the Chiltern Hundreds, or the Manor of Northstead (for which re-election writs can only be issued during the session), a writ is issued by warrant from the Speaker, made out to the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery, as soon as the Speaker is notified of the death, or peerage, by a certificate under the hands of two members, coupled in the case of acceptance of office, with a notice thereof from the member himself. During the session the Speaker issues his warrant by order of the House upon motion made and agreed to. In the case of a new Parliament the original issue of writs lies with the Crown. Writs returnable for a county are sent to the Sheriff of the county, and those that relate to cities or boroughs are sent direct to the Returning Officers. The messenger, or pursuivant, of the Great Seal, or his deputy, after receiving the writs, is bound to carry them forthwith to the General Post Office in London, and there deliver them to the Postmaster General or his deputy, receiving an acknowledgment thereof in writing. The Postmaster-General, in his turn, is bound to despatch the writs by the first post; the Returning Officers are required, upon receiving them, to give an acknowledgment, setting forth the day and hour of delivery; and this memorandum is transmitted to the General Post Office in London, and filed there for reference. The London writs are delivered personally by the Messenger of the Great Seal.

ST. MARGARET'S CHURCH, WESTMINSTER, is the church of the House of Commons, and Members of Parliament are always entitled to seats therein. The tercentenary of its recognition as such took place on April 17th, 1914.

CONSTITUTION OF THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

At the time of the Union with Scotland, in 1707, the House consisted of 513 members; 45 were then added for Scotland, and in 1801, 100 were added for Ireland, making the total of 658. This number was preserved by the Reform Acts of 1832 and 1868, but in each case the apportionment was altered and in 1885 it nominally stood—England and Wales 493, Scotland 60, and Ireland 105, but by the disfranchisement of Beverley (2), Bridgwater (2), Cashel (1), and Sligo (1), the total representation was reduced to 652 members. The result of the Redistribution of Seats Act 1885 was to increase the total number of members elected for counties, boroughs and universities to 670, and the Representation of the People Act (1918) raised the total to 707, the basis being one Member for every 70,000 of population in Great Britain, and one for every 43,000 in Ireland, but to be reduced by the Government of Ireland Act (1920) to 648.* Distribution is as follows:—

In future ..	254	266	8	38	33	3	80	21	4	377	315	15

* The Government of Ireland Act 1920 stipulates for the eventual reduction of the number of Irish Representatives to sit in the United Kingdom Parliament as follows: Counties 34, Boroughs 8, Universities 4, total 46, in place of 105, and on the establishment of the Irish Free State this number will be further reduced by the omission of the 33 seats allocated to Southern Ireland.

The HOUSE of PEARS

Family pride with us is a very real thing. One hundred and thirty years ago, Andrew Pears began the manufacture of Pears' Transparent Soap in a very small way, and, although mass production in great modern factories has taken the place of the little back room where our soap first saw the light, his descendants are just as careful of their reputation, standing as it does shoulder-high amongst the traders of the world, as was their ancestor of his amongst the merchants of London City.

Nowdays Transparent soap is not our only occupation. In fact Pears' Golden Series comprises everything that man or woman could possibly want for their toilet, from sticks of opaque shaving soap to books of powder-leaves. Your chemist or your stores will show all these things to you, and we know you will agree that the plain gold containers are the daintiest ornaments for your dressing table, while, when you use them, you will find that their contents are fully worthy of our House.

At the End of January, 1922,

WITH THE NAMES OF THEIR MEMBERS AND OF THE UNSUCCESSFUL CANDIDATES.

The engravings are copies of Borough Arms or of Corporation Seals; when inserted in the Division of a County the arms indicate the armorial insignia or seal of the Borough after which the Division is named, either primarily or otherwise.

Names in italics are those of unsuccessful members at the last General, or subsequent, Election.

Figures following names indicate the numbers polled at the last General, or subsequent, Election.

★ An Asterisk before the name of a member indicates that he did not sit in the last Parliament.

Secondary names of Divisions, or Boroughs, are inserted in alphabetical order throughout the section,—e.g., "Spelthorne, see Middlesex; "Leamington, see Warwick."

Divisions of Counties and Boroughs are given in alphabetical order under the heading of their respective county or borough.

† Unsuccessful candidate sat as a Member in last Parliament.

VICE-ADMIRALS OF THE COAST OF GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND.

A VICE-ADMIRAL OF THE COAST is a Judicial and Ministerial Officer, representing the Lord High Admiral in his Civil, as distinguished from the Naval, capacity. The office is of great antiquity, but has fallen into some desuetude during the last hundred years. The letters patent of the appoint-

OPPORTUNITIES IN THE PROVINCE OF QUEBEC.

WHO WILL SUCCEED.

TENANT Farmers and others of small means, who can never expect to become land-owners at home, but who with industry, sobriety and economy and a knowledge of farming may confidently look forward in Canada, where tenant farmers are almost unknown, to becoming the proprietor of a fine farm and a comfortable home.

Capitalists, manufacturers and merchants who have money to invest in industries, trade, banks, railways, mines, etc., will find that the vast natural resources of the Province of Quebec are but imperfectly developed, and that they offer immense scope for their activity, energy, and spirit of enterprise.

The proximity of the Province to Europe is not the least of its recommendations. It is nearer England, Scotland and Ireland than any other colony of the British Empire.

QUEBEC

THE PROVINCE OF PROSPERITY

Vast natural resources and an industrious, thrifty, and enterprising population have brought unexampled prosperity to this Province.

No Province of the Dominion offers more startling opportunities for the investor. Immense water powers, now running to waste, will produce electricity for industrial purposes in unlimited volume; vast forests will supply an enormous cut of timber and wood pulp; rich mineral deposits hold out alluring opportunities to the prospector; extensive tracts of fertile land suitable for general farming and dairying await settlement. Next to its lands and forests, the Fish and Game of the Province are among its most valuable assets, providing splendid commercial opportunities and incomparable sport. Strong financial position. Population 2,500,000.

Quebec is the Sportsman's Paradise, the Holiday-maker's Elysium, and a land of opportunity for all.

A Land of Hope and Opportunity

ECONOMISE as they may, there are many country families, formerly accustomed to live comfortably, who now find themselves in very straitened circumstances. And nothing discourages these people more than their inability to launch their children in the accustomed way.

Hard though the case of these "new poor" is, it is far from hopeless. Their ancestors were Empire builders. They, too, in their turn, have the opportunity to grasp the nettle of changed conditions, and reach out for the openings awaiting them and their children in other parts of this vast and rich Empire. Moderate capital in any of the newer communities spells both comfort and opportunity.

The settled portions of Ontario, for example, offer such people the fuller, freer, more hopeful life they long for. Here is one of the most prosperous, progressive, and beautiful countries within the British Empire. Here for the elder people are all the amenities to which they have been accustomed: the pleasant country home, the social circle, electricity, the telephone, good roads and railways, fishing, shooting, golf, tennis, sports and games; good markets both for buying and selling; a school system for their children second to none in the world, and cheap; universities for their sons and daughters equal to any in their courses; an income tax far less onerous than in England; an invigorating, healthy and sunny climate.

And for their children as they grow up a boundless horizon for ambitious endeavour.

"Go and Grow in Ontario."

Fruit Farming in Ontario.

Ontario has over 300,000 acres of commercial Orchards, Fruit Farms and Vineyards.

SOUTHERN ONTARIO is one of the most beautiful, fertile and prosperous fruit-growing countries within the British Empire. Peaches and grapes ripen in abundance in the open air.

Fruit and general farms and country homes, within reach of all the amenities of life, can be purchased at moderate prices on easy terms.

Information about Ontario is gladly furnished on application to the ONTARIO GOVERNMENT OFFICE, 163, Strand, London, W.C.2

The Mystery of Mormonism

By STUART MARTIN.

Demy 8vo. Cloth. 24 full-page Illustrations. 21/- net.

"Is one of the most valuable contributions ever made to the history of human error. It avoids frenzied denunciation as much as credulous advocacy, and is the first work which has been published that presents us with unprejudiced, incontestable facts regarding the movement growing out of the supposed revelation of Joseph Smith a century ago on a hill in the States of New York. Up to the beginning of the Great War, Mormonism had made, it is estimated, 150,000 converts in Great Britain, and other countries in proportion."—Globe.

Fighting Sports

By CAPTAIN L. FITZ-BARNARD.

Demy 8vo. Cloth. 21/- net.

"In compiling his book on 'Fighting Sports,' Captain Fitz-Barnard has entered upon some ground which has probably never previously been touched by modern writers on old-time sports. Many thrilling stories are told in its pages, which begin with cock-fighting and end with man-fighting, described by a masterly pen. The book is lavishly illustrated, and is well worth the guinea at which it is priced."—Daily Express.

From Whitehall to the Caspian

By LT.-COL. FRENCH.

Demy 8vo. Cloth. Fully Illustrated by Maps and Photographs. 18/- net.

Sir George Aston in the Liverpool Daily Courier says: "A new book on the Middle East has come out at a very opportune moment, now that we are beginning to realise the cost of paying for a policy in which we have had no say whatever. The author was sent out on a semi-political, semi-naval mission in the autumn of 1918, and he tells us much of interest about the seizure and subsequent abandonment of the command of the Caspian by enterprising British naval officers; also about the effects produced upon the local mind. 'From the Bolsheviks may Allah deliver us,' said a Tartar friend to the author. The book tells us more than we have ever heard before about all these matters, and it is of special value at the present time, throwing, as it does, much light upon all the problems which confronted us in 1918-19 from Batoum through Azerbaijan, North Persia and Trans-Caspian to Turkestan. An excellent map of these obscure regions is included."

Illustrated prospectus will be sent post free on application.

BRITISH COLUMBIA THE DEVONSHIRE OF CANADA

BRITISH COLUMBIA IS THE RIVIERA OF CANADA.

It lies between parallels of latitude 49° and 60°, where the best things grow.

The Japanese current, the mountain barriers against the East and West winds, and the ocean tides of the Pacific produce an unequalled climate.

The average temperature in the coldest month (January) is 39° Fahr. at Victoria.

The average temperature in the warmest month (July or August) is remarkably cool—60° at Victoria.

Bright sunshine on the coast is 2,068 hours, or more than in Great Britain or even the Channel Islands.

BRITISH COLUMBIA AND THE FUTURE.

British Columbia is the western front of the British Empire on the Pacific Ocean, around and within whose waters dwell two-thirds of all mankind. Here lies the Imperial Pacific British Dominion with nine-tenths of British possessions. There has been no geographical event of importance equal to that of the cutting of the Panama Canal since Columbus gave to man the "God-like gift of half the world." It has reduced the distance from Liverpool to Victoria from 14,588 to 8,892 miles, saving seventeen days and 1,700 tons of coal. It has removed the obstacle to world development on the Pacific.

What stores of energy will British Columbia contribute towards building up the great new world on the Pacific? What part will she take in the most momentous coming event of the twentieth century?

BRITISH COLUMBIA PRODUCTS.

Some of the staple products are:—

Agriculture, 1919	$61,000,000
Forest, 1919	$70,000,000
Minerals, 1918	$41,782,474
Fish, 1917	$21,518,595
Total Mineral product, including 1918	$637,358,581

BRITISH COLUMBIA'S NEW PRODUCTS.

Pulp and paper.—Eleven years ago British Columbia produced no paper. It now produces 645 tons of paper daily.

OCEAN-GOING SHIPS.

Previous to 1917 no ocean-going ships had been built in British Columbia. Since that year the following have been constructed:

Wooden	90	...	217,900 tons

THE SUPREME

SUNBEAMA Sunbeam Owner's Opinion.

"I have just recently completed a long tour in England of about 1,030 miles in a 24 h.-p. SUNBEAM . . . I think I should tell you how extremely satisfactory was the running of the car . . . During the whole of the tour it was never necessary for me to open the tool box. It was not necessary to clean a sparking plug, tighten a bolt or nut, or even pump a tyre. The car had only to be filled each day with a certain quantity of oil, water and petrol. I think this is the strongest testimonial I could give of the excellent attributes of the car, which at times was driven fairly fast."

24/60 H.P. SALOON.

This model has been universally admired since its first appearance some two years ago, and to those who desire a superlatively comfortable town carriage, it makes an irresistible appeal.
